Promoting The Arts

...by getting involved in the community

Celestia Performing Arts Center actively participates in various community events by providing a wide variety of entertainment. Celestia is also an active participant in several communities through the chambers of commerce and other business groups.

...by involving the community

Celestia Performing Arts Center invites people from all facets of the community to participate in every aspect of the organization as performers, board members, support and promotional committee members, and more.

...by being a home for the arts

Celestia Performing Arts Center seeks to include other arts groups and individuals looking for an outlet for their talents. Celestia also seeks to become a home for the arts within the community by operating an arts center where the talents of such groups and individuals are nurtured and displayed on a regular basis.

Education

Celestia Performing Arts Center Association currently has more than 70 performers in its largest group, the music ensemble. Many of the singers, new to choral work until joining us, had never sung in public. The choral conductor and vocal director teach the basic principles of singing and sight reading to chorus members. The instrumental director works with the musicians to arrange accompaniments to fit the overall vision of each production. In addition, the vocal director has instituted a pre-rehearsal voice class weekly. Participants learn the basics of vocal technique, leading to improved singing and good vocal health practices. The class is structured partly as lecture and partly as master class. Advanced singers have the opportunity to join select groups in Celestia's wide variety of entertainment endeavors.

Celestia's future includes:

1. Private/group voice and instrument classes.
2. Summer instructional camps for music, theater, and drama.
3. A light opera production in the summer and opera workshops.
4. A program for special needs children and adults.

Classes will be available throughout the year to interested community residents.

Performing Arts Center

VALUES

Celestia Performing Arts is built on these four principles:

1. PROFESSIONALISM - A quality evident in our style of entertainment and our service to the community.
2. INTEGRITY - Upholding our reputation within the community will always be a priority.
3. INCLUSIVITY - Our goal is to provide a home for the performing as well as the visual arts.
4. EDUCATION - Directors at Celestia have incorporated an ongoing educational process to ensure constant improvement.

MISSION STATEMENT

Our mission is to provide high quality performances of the arts supported by educational and practical classes in a fun, professional environment.

VISION

Celestia's vision is one of great magnitude. Just like our logo set against the starlit sky, our future is bright. New stars will be born and begin their shining legacy. Faded stars will glow once again. Some will discover what they didn't realize - they are stars just waiting for a home in which to shine.

At Celestia, our vision is to be that home; a haven where people come and relax while enjoying live, local entertainment; a home with a Welcome mat that says, "Bring us your talent and we will develop it within these walls."

When you look through the telescope at the Celestia sky, you will see education in the not so distant future. This will be a center where grandparents, parent and child can all be taught by talented professionals.

Celestia will be recognized throughout Montgomery and Bucks Counties as a leader in its endeavors.

We encourage you to "gaze" at the Celestia vision. Be a star. Help a star. Teach a star. Support a star.

You and your community deserve to see this vision become a reality.
